During a hearing Tuesday to dismiss sex-trafficking charges against the late Jeffrey Epstein, 16 accusers of alleged sexual abuse by the financier — whose Aug. 10 jail death has been ruled a suicide — took the stand over two hours to recount their experiences, and voiced frustration, anguish and anger that "justice has never been served" in the case. 4

1 Dead, 5 injured in partial building collapse at Bronx construction site

A worker was killed Tuesday when the third floor of a new residential building collapsed in Norwood.

A person was killed in the Bronx Tuesday after becoming buried when the third floor of a building that was under construction partially collapsed.

Hundreds of firefighters rushed to the scene at East 208th Street near Steuben Avenue in Norwood just before noon. Several FDNY members were seen pulling what appeared to be concrete blocks from the area where the worker was trapped. Despite their rescue efforts, the person was not able to be saved.

"The trapped individual has been recovered and has succumbed to fatal injuries," an FDNY spokesperson said on Twitter at around 1 p.m.

The worker's identity was not released as of deadline Tuesday.

Five others were injured before escaping the collapse, officials said. Two of the injuries were considered serious.

Rescuers who responded to the collapse had to deal with a treacherous scene. Firefighters put up ladders to access the second floor of the building.

"There was a lot of rubble and broken concrete blocks, a lot of building material that covered the area and we had to dig through it to find the missing worker," said FDNY Chief of Special Operations John Esposito. "We had serious concerns for our members on scene. We were concerned about the second floor collapsing into the first floor during our operation. We were able to build shores and put struts in there to support that load to make it safe for the rescue efforts."

Mayor Bill de Blasio addressed the incident on Twitter, saying, "Tragically, one worker lost their life and 5 others have been injured. Please keep the area clear as @FDNY is finishing its operation."

The Department of Buildings will conduct a full investigation, the mayor said.

Meek Mill pleads guilty to gun charge; 12-year case ends

2 Meek Mill's high-profile criminal case has come to a close after the rapper pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor gun-possession charge in a plea agreement accepted by a judge Tuesday in Philadelphia. Mill's other charges have been dropped, and he will serve no more time in prison or face probation or further prosecution. "I'm extremely grateful that my long legal battle is finally behind me and I appreciate that it has sparked a much-needed discussion about probation reform and the inequalities that exist within our two Americas," Mill, whose real name is Robert Williams, said Tuesday on Twitter. Mill served time for a drug and gun conviction, but it was overturned last month because of credibility concerns about the arresting officer. Mill spoke to people rallying outside the hearing, where he said, "Meek free. I'm not on probation no more. Thank you." BECCA GLASSER-BAKER

Ex-Google engineer charged in self-driving secrets theft

3 The U.S. Department of Justice on Tuesday filed criminal charges accusing Anthony Levandowski, a former high-ranking engineer at Alphabet Inc., of stealing the company's self-driving car technology before joining rival Uber Technologies Inc. The 33-count indictment largely mirrors allegations that Alphabet's Waymo unit, where Levandowski had worked, had made in a civil lawsuit against Uber in 2017, which later settled. Lawyers for Levandowski said their client stole nothing and that they looked forward to proving his innocence at trial. Levandowski, who could face many years in prison and a fine if convicted, is expected to appear later on Tuesday in federal court in San Jose, California. The prosecution of Levandowski, 39, is one of Silicon Valley's highest-profile cases alleging theft of trade secrets. REUTERS

US judge temporarily blocks Missouri 8-week abortion ban

4 A U.S. federal judge on Tuesday blocked Missouri from enforcing a law banning abortion in the state after eight weeks of pregnancy except in cases of medical emergency, acting just a day before the law was set to take effect. U.S. District Judge Howard Sachs in Kansas City temporarily halted the law, pending litigation or a further order of the court, saying it would negatively impact the rights of hundreds of women. The ban, like ones blocked in Arkansas and Ohio earlier this summer, was written in the knowledge it would likely be struck down but with the hope it would prompt the U.S. Supreme Court to review its landmark 1973 decision legalizing abortion nationwide. "Today's decision affirms that abortion is still a constitutional right, and we will do everything possible to keep it that way," said Andrew Beck, an ACLU attorney. REUTERS

‘Eats away at my soul’: Epstein accusers testify weeks after financier’s suicide

Victims voiced their anger during hearing to dismiss charges.

Gloria Allred (center), representing alleged victims of Jeffrey Epstein, leaves Tuesday’s hearing in Manhattan. REUTERS

A succession of women who say Jeffrey Epstein sexually abused them voiced anger and defiance in a packed New York courtroom on Tuesday, expressing raw emotions during a dramatic hearing less than three weeks after the financier killed himself while awaiting trial on sex-trafficking charges.

“He showed the world what a depraved and cowardly human being he was by taking his own life,” one of the women, Sarah Ransome, said at the hearing before U.S. District Judge Richard Berman that lasted about 2 1/2 hours.

“I will not let him win in death,” another woman, Chauntae Davies, told the court.

Federal prosecutors appeared at the hearing to ask the judge to formally dismiss their case against Epstein. One after another, the accusers then detailed Epstein’s actions against them years ago. In all, 16 women testified, including six who did so without giving their names, and lawyers read statements from seven other women.

Epstein, who once counted President Donald Trump and former President Bill Clinton as friends, was arrested on July 6 and pleaded not guilty to federal charges of sex trafficking involving dozens of girls as young as 14.

The 66-year-old was found dead Aug. 10 in his cell at the Metropolitan Correctional Center (MCC) in Lower Manhattan. An autopsy concluded that he hanged himself.

Explaining why he gave the women and their lawyers an opportunity to address the court, the judge said it was “both because of their relevant experiences and because they should always be involved before, rather than after, the fact.” After the hearing, Berman said “everyone has benefited greatly” from hearing from the women.

Prosecutors accused Epstein of arranging for girls to perform nude “massages” and other sex acts, and paying some girls to recruit others, from at least 2002 to 2005. Some of the women said he raped them.

“The fact that I will never have a chance to face my predator in court eats away at my soul,” said Jennifer Araoz, another of the women.

“I feel very angry and sad that justice has never been served in this case,” Courtney Wild, another accuser, told the hearing.

Davies told the court Epstein hired her to give massages. She said Epstein raped her the third or fourth time they met on his private island and continued to abuse her.

Berman ordered prosecutors and defense lawyers for Epstein to appear in court after the Manhattan U.S. Attorney’s office said it wanted to dismiss the indictment against Epstein in light of his jail death.

> “I feel very angry and sad that justice has never been served in this case.”
> Courtney Wild, accuser

At the hearing, Assistant U.S. Attorney Maurene Comey said the law required the dismissal of the case in light of Epstein’s death, but said the government’s investigation was ongoing.

“Dismissal of this indictment as to Jeffrey Epstein in no way prohibits or inhibits the government’s ongoing investigation into potential co-conspirators,” Comey said. REUTERS

Chelsea Market to become city's largest food hall with grocery-focused expansion

Google-owned site will add vendors to the underground Chelsea Local in September.

Downtown favorite Pearl River Market is among the new food vendors coming to Chelsea Local. COURTESY CHELSEA MARKET

New York City's OG food hall, Chelsea Market, is set to expand in September. The market's lower level, known as the Chelsea Local, will nearly double in size — from 13,000 square feet to 25,000 square feet — and add a range of new vendors, including Black Seed Bagels, Las Delicias Patisserie and Pearl River Mart Foods, a new grocery from Asian emporium Pearl River Market. The addition will bring the market's total size up to 135,000 square feet, easily making it the largest food hall in the city.

The market added the Chelsea Local underground level in 2017 to provide a wide selection of specialty food items and rare ingredients. The current roster of vendors includes Zach & Zoe Sweet Bee Farm, Manhattan Fruit Exchange, Buon Italia, Saxelby Cheesemongers, and Heatonist.

"The Chelsea Local continues the legacy of Chelsea Market as a neighborhood market with a global perspective," said Michael Phillips, president of Jamestown, the market's operator, in a statement. "We're proud to be adding to our lineup of local vendors and to offer an increased benefit to our neighbors and community."

The new vendors will include Black Seed Appetizing, a new concept from Black Seed Bagels that will expand their offerings to include a variety of Jewish staples. Las Delicias Patisserie — whose vegetarian, kosher pastries are typically sold at farmers markets — will open its first brick and mortar in the space.

In addition to the new options, some classic Chelsea Market purveyors will get a chance to expand their footprint. Dickson's Farmstead Meats is moving from the ground floor to a larger 2,360-square-foot space within the Chelsea Local. The new location will continue to offer artisanal meat, poultry, hot dogs, rotisserie chicken, and sandwiches, as well as new prepared foods and grilled meats. Pearl River Market is opening Pearl River Mart Foods, a 1,970-square-foot grocery that will feature a wide range of specialty items in addition to prepared food.

> "We're proud to be adding to our lineup of local vendors and to offer an increased benefit to our neighbors and community."

A new dedicated entrance from 15th Street will also be added for the fall opening, which is expected sometime in mid-September.

Puerto Rico braces for Dorian emergency as storm blows past Barbados

Near-hurricane strength forecast for Wednesday landfall.

Tropical Storm Dorian. REUTERS

Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic braced for Tropical Storm Dorian on Tuesday as it churned west-northwest, with officials cautioning that it could approach hurricane strength on Wednesday after blowing over Barbados.

"Slow strengthening is forecast during the next 48 hours, and Dorian is forecast to be near hurricane strength when it moves close to Puerto Rico and eastern Hispaniola," the U.S. National Hurricane Center (NHC) said in a report.

The storm's center is expected to pass near or south of Puerto Rico on Wednesday, move near or over eastern Hispaniola Wednesday night and move north of Hispaniola on Thursday.

"Tropical storm conditions are expected and hurricane conditions are possible in Puerto Rico on Wednesday and in portions of the Dominican Republic Wednesday night and Thursday," said the NHC.

Puerto Rico Gov. Wanda Vazquez Garced declared a state of emergency for the U.S. territory late on Monday in anticipation of the storm, the government said on Twitter.

There will be about 360 shelters open across the island, the governor said.

Barbados was hit by strong winds and intermittent showers, with periodic jolts of thunder and lightning, on Monday evening.

The Barbados Meteorological Services discontinued its tropical storm warning at 2 a.m. and the nation's international airport was reopened at 7 a.m.

"The threat of winds and heavy rains later this week, into this weekend, in the Turks and Caicos, the Bahamas and Florida is increasing. Residents in these areas should monitor progress of Dorian and ensure that they have their hurricane plan in place," said the NHC.

A hurricane watch is in effect for Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic.

By late Tuesday morning, the storm was located about 60 miles (95 km) west-northwest of St. Lucia, blowing maximum sustained winds of 50 mph, according to the NHC.

St. Lucia discontinued a tropical storm warning for the island.

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

"Don't Get ANY Surgery Until You SeeThis…"

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best "Treatment Formula" For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going is be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD "Treatment Formula" A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW....

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these "gel injections" without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patent. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our "Treatment Formula."

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action… step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

A CULTURAL UNDERSTANDING

When out in the Center City art district you hear a lot of people speaking different languages. I assume that most of them are visitors. Recently I was at a Phlash bus stop. There was a family there speaking a language of which I was interested. I asked what language it was. I had to repeat myself. Later I found out that they could not speak English. But one of the young boys figured it out and told me, Italian. I asked what city and he said, "Rome." I began to ask the adults about the progress of the Coliseum, and that I had visited there. They did know a little English, such as, "Don't understand." The man asked where I was from and of course the children understood my first questions. I had learned a few greeting Italian words but I didn't feel confident to use them. On the bus I conversed with someone about the word, "ciao." So when I got up to depart the bus I looked over at the family and said, "ciao." They responded in kind and you should've seen the smiles on their faces. It's always good to feel welcome when you're in a new place. It made me realize that this is the way I would like to be treated whether I speak the native language or not. I am not afraid to get to know someone that looks different from me and does not share my culture. Other than that we have so much else in common. It's called people.

'I was one of house music's pioneers' CRYSTAL WATERS

Metro chatted with the iconic voice of '90s house.

LAURA LOPEZ, MWN
letters@metro.us

Tell us about your new song, "United in Dance."
It's quite lively. I did it with a producer called R-Naldo. I am very excited, it is very sticky and I think it is a song that people will like very much. It is a much more commercial house song.

At the beginning of your career, your music was described as dance rather than house.
I think I started doing house, but people didn't know what it was at that time. Then, when they recognized it, they realized that I was one of the genre pioneers. I did house at that time. Since I was on the radio, many thought it was pop, because it was on a lot. But the truth is that songs like "Gypsy Woman" were a bridge between genres. I think that was what happened.

What do you feel when you listen to your songs/remixes/samples?
It's wonderful, I feel that some songs have their own life. They are on their own out there doing their thing. … I like to think that when I am gone, my music will continue playing. I will have a hashtag that says #GypsyWomanLivesAgain [laughs]. I think, in fact, Afrojack used part of a song of mine recently. That's fine with me.

Talking about the new generations, it is known that many DJs share their tracks for you to decide whether or not you want to collaborate with them. Tell us more about that process.
I think it has to do with the instruments having a good hook. I usually look for that, but I also pay attention to the bassline. It fascinates me to find a very heavy bass [laughs]. It has to be well-structured. Sometimes they send me just a minute of audio, but I can't decide that way. I need to see it in song format. It shows when someone doesn't know about music, it feels in the structure of the song.

What is the secret for a song to pass the test of time and remain a hit despite the years?
It's a good question, because there are issues that are songs that are 27 years old. I would say that I don't have the answer, but the truth is that you have to put all your effort and your heart into music. Not everyone achieves this with their songs, which they call "evergreens." And I am very lucky that house has returned with more force today, and that is why many people want to listen to my music again.

In your family there was a lot of influence from jazz and other genres on behalf of your father and grandmother, Ethel Waters. How did you get to electronic music?
I started with jazz, but I moved to dance jazz. And in the long run I was just at the right place and time. I had some recorded music and I met some guys at a music conference, and they liked my lyrics because they were different from what was happening in house at that time. I did jazz vocals over beat, and they liked that. Once I was able to get into this, I didn't go out.

You were also a young woman in an industry dominated by men.
Yes, it was quite hard. All producers were men, so you must prove that you are serious, because they would want to sleep with you. You have to be tough, put on a very serious face. Many people are also condescending and talk to you as if you were a little girl who doesn't know what she is doing. Then you must be strong, convince yourself that you know what you are doing, constantly repeat to yourself that you can and know how to differentiate who has good intentions and who does not. Many girls are not recognized for their work, and that makes me very angry. I think there is still a long way to go.

What would you say to the girls who dream of being like you?
That they have to learn the field before anything else. There are ways to learn to write songs and become good at what you do. Then there is the business. Talent can only be 5 percent of success and the business can be the remaining 95 percent. Realize that this is a business, and do not take it personally. You will be rejected nine times out of 10, but never 10 out of 10. Resist and persist.

Pearl Jam guitarist Mike McCready and artist Kate Neckel bring 'Infinite Color and Sound' to Public Arts

The two will host a unique multimedia performance next month.

PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

JIM BENNETT

Pearl Jam guitarist Mike McCready is a very curious person. If you have ever seen him perform onstage, you know full well how excitable and dialed into the material he gets, night after night, as he attacks each classic song like the legendary band is bringing it out of the practice space for the very first time. With his newest project, "Infinite Color and Sound," his collaboration with New York- and Seattle-based artist Kate Neckel, the two artists will be going on a short tour where they will be trading instruments and paint brushes back and forth to create a unique evening of art and music in front of a live audience.

As a rock musician in one of the biggest bands of the past 30 years, McCready has always had the urge to mix things up while off the road. The initial germ of this idea came after his wife, Ashley O'Connor, told him that he should check out Neckel's show "Stories" at the Winston Wachter Gallery in Seattle. He loved what he saw and began to strike up a friendship and mutual appreciation of the arts with Neckel.

"I really loved her work when I saw it and I asked her questions about every single piece, which had to be irritating, but she was very nice to me. I appreciated it," said McCready when I spoke with him and Neckel over the phone. "I had mentioned, casually, that I had always wanted to do some sort of a Warhol Factory-type multimedia thing for the last 25, 26 years. I don't know what that was, but it was something that would be involving music, painting, art, photographs, or all that. And then Kate understood that from the beginning, as an artist from New York City, and kind of said, 'Hey, I know what you mean.' And she was the first one to ever respond to that."

Neckel was more than game for this sort of cross-medium collaboration that McCready had been craving. "I had had a similar desire to collaborate on the same type of vision that Mike was telling me about and he was speaking my same language," she explains. "I was like, 'I totally get it.' Then we said, 'Let's try. Let's, you know, give this a go.' So I think a few weeks later I brought a roll of canvas over to the studio. And he started playing guitar and playing keyboards and I just started and I moved my paintbrush around to what I was feeling based on what he was playing. And then it grew from there."

What the show has become is a liberating exploration for both artists to create without hesitation or reservation. Either Neckel or McCready will start painting or making music on guitar or keyboards, and the other will change their direction in response. Then, when things are getting into too much of a rhythm, the artists will switch their preferred medium for the other's to get out of their comfort zones. This kind of freefall into visual art was something that both excited and scared McCready. But of course, Neckel was there to push and encourage him from the very start of this new partnership.

"I was playing off of what she was creating, trying to do a soundtrack for what she was doing and then she would go a certain way. I wasn't thinking about it. It was more of a feeling thing. I got the canvas that she had painted on the floor and then the tricky part was when we switched, she would play guitar later and then I would paint a little bit. And that was, for me, that was the scary part because I'd never painted before. It was terrifying for me cause I felt, am I going judged? All of this baggage that I've held on to for so long in terms of my inability to do things on certain levels was coming out right then. It was silly, now I'm thinking about it. But it was very freeing in terms of getting her advice and just saying kind of like, 'Go for it.'"

What excites Neckel the most is the spontaneity of the whole project. "I think that every time we do it, you know, it changes and it's based on whatever — it changes every time. But we just always, I think, just want to tell the truth and be vulnerable and be open and have a good [time]."

While the future is certainly unwritten for this tour, McCready and Neckel will be performing at Public Arts on Thursday, Sept. 19, and hope to be inspired to create by this ever-vibrant city.

"I think that the vibe of New York, that intensity, will add to it," McCready says. "Hopefully that will come out."

BARBIE FERREIRA

This 22-year-old model was interested in the role of Kat Hernandez because of her not being the typical insecure and one-dimensional plus-size woman. And she also could use her style: latex dresses, boleros, makeup in cold tones, statement accessories. Ferreira, of Brazilian descent who has more than a million followers on Instagram, set a new trend. She started modeling after sending photos to American Apparel and since there she has been unstoppable: working for ASOS, Adidas, Forever 21 and Missguided, among other brands. In addition, her photos without Photoshop for Aerie went viral in 2016. With Euphoria, she has appeared in Interview and Paper magazines, but has already been featured in Vogue, Teen Vogue, Oyster and Nylon. She had also acted in two episodes of "Divorce" before many discovered Ferreira thanks to the series that has given her stardom.

PLUS-SIZE MODELS WHO GIVE OTHER MEANING TO 'BODY POSITIVITY'

OLIVIA CAMPBELL

The Brit was of the mannequin size when she was hired by Bridge Models agency. She is a single mother and a strong body-positivity activist in her country. With 177,000 followers on Instagram, she speaks openly about how the issue of plus-sized bodies is treated by the society. That is why she wants to stop talking about the word "fat" with shame. She has expressed it in a StyleLikeU's video dubbed "I am not curvy, I am fat," from a series called "The What's Underneath Project" (2016). She also has collaborated for brands like Simply Be and in a podcast that talks about treating all kinds of bodies as natural.

LA' SHAUNAE STEWARD

The 22-year-old has already launched a line of inclusive shoes with Jeffery Campbell and signed a contract with Revolt agency. She has suffered in her career from fat shaming — there were even memes featuring her that became viral — but many people have identified with her sense of style and with Steward's incredible attitude. She has also launched Inclus Models, which is looking for models beyond the curvy stereotype. Thanks to her social media activity, Shaunae started knocking on doors and after four years, she managed to be hired. Now she has 106,000 followers on Instagram and has inspired many women who do not fit the "plus-size" standard of curvy women. She appeared in the campaigns for the Universal Standard brand, in Vogue and in Dazed. LUZ LANCHEROS, MWN

Serena Williams cruised in her first-round win over Maria Sharapova on Monday night. GETTY IMAGES

Serena eyes record-tying Grand Slam in Queens

The 2019 US Open title would tie Williams with Margaret Court atop the all-time list.

ADAM ZAGORIA
sports@metro.us

Serena Williams sure didn't like that she was facing the pressure of making history during her knockout of Maria Sharapova with Mike Tyson and the eyes of the sporting world watching on Monday night.

But rest assured, Williams — who turns 38 next month — continues to face pressure to win her 24th Grand Slam title, which would tie her with Australian Margaret Court atop the all-time list.

"There's so much pressure on her at every Grand Slam," said ESPN's Rennae Stubbs, a former world No. 1 in doubles. "There's so much pressure on her at the US Open because the American public wants her to win so badly again and she doesn't want to win anywhere more than the US Open in New York. It just adds and adds and adds, and no one can understand the pressure that she constantly feels other than Roger [Federer], Rafa [Nadal], and Novak [Djokovic]. "

Like Federer, Nadal, and Djokovic, Serena is rewriting the record books and is widely considered the GOAT — the Greatest of All Time — in women's tennis.

Still, Williams remains stuck on 23 majors and hasn't won a Grand Slam title since beating her sister Venus in the 2017 Australian Open final.

Since becoming a mother that September, she hasn't won a title of any kind and is 0-3 in Grand Slam finals.

Last year, she lost in a highly charged and controversial final at the Open to Naomi Osaka. Umpire Carlos Ramos, who gave Williams several penalties for illegal coaching, racquet, and verbal abuse — she called him a "thief" during the final — won't officiate any of her matches this year.

"Yeah, I don't know who that is," Williams said when asked about Ramos.

Serena looked laser-focused in her 6-1, 6-1 rout of Sharapova Monday night and says she's here to win her seventh US Open title.

"Yeah," she said, "I feel like I'm here to do that. We'll see what happens."

Williams needs to get to No. 24 to dismiss the doubters, but Stubbs said Court's record is somewhat artificial because she won more than half of her titles during the amateur era — before 1968. She also won 11 Australian Open titles when many other top players didn't compete in it.

"I mean, look I'm Australian and I take pride in our Aussies but Margaret Court won 11 Australian Opens when no one was playing," Stubbs said.

Steffi Graf retired with 22 Grand Slam titles — all during the Open Era — and Serena has already surpassed her.

"We've been talking about Serena at 23 and 24 for five years since she was trying to reach Steffi," Stubbs said. "And I think that was the goal, to beat Steffi's record because no one even thought that was close to being possible after what Chrissie [Evert] and Martina [Navratilova] did."

"They keep raising the bar. Now it's Margaret Court. I didn't know amateur Grand Slams counted, now they do. For me, Martina, Chrissie, Steffi, and Serena are in the same [category] — utter GOATs."

Next up for Williams at the Open on Wednesday is Caty McNally, the 17-year-old from Cincinnati who is playing doubles here with 15-year-old sensation Coco Gauff.

"Her career has been so long and so consistent, she's obviously the GOAT, greatest player ever," McNally told the Cincinnati Enquirer. "I have nothing to lose, everything to gain, so hopefully I can go out there and stick to my guns and give her a good match."

After being forced to retire during the Toronto final with back spasms, and then pulling out of Cincinnati because of them, Williams is moving well and looks like she's up for the challenge of a two-week Grand Slam.

"The body is good," she said. "I feel good, my back's a lot better so I'm excited. This is going to be fun."

Six more wins would make it a lot more fun — if she can finally get to No. 24.

"If she can play seven matches like this, the US Open is hers," Evert said on air during the Sharapova match. "Twenty-four."

Should Islanders pursue Patrik Laine?

The Jets star RFA has made no progress in contract talks.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

Believe it or not, the NHL preseason starts up in approximately three weeks.

And while the rest of the Metropolitan Division has reloaded this offseason — especially the New Jersey Devils and New York Rangers — the Islanders are in a precarious position.

The team that shocked the hockey world last season — making the Eastern Conference semifinals when they were expected to finish near the bottom of the standings — has yet to address its largest need.

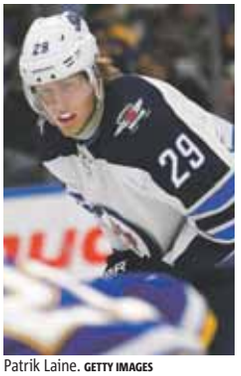
Barry Trotz's defense-first team was one of the lowest-scoring teams in the East, lacking a bonafide sniper.

General manager Lou Lamoriello came up empty over the summer when Artemi Panarin — the Islanders' main and only target — chose to take less money and join the Rangers.

It's left them with a virtually unchanged offense. The only real addition was the signing of Derick Brassard as a third-line center last week.

But there is still time to make a big splash and situation brewing in Winnipeg might provide the Islanders with a golden opportunity to get the pure goal scorer that they need.

Star right-winger Patrik Laine has heard virtually nothing from the Jets this summer, which has thrown his future with the team into uncertain waters.



Patrik Laine. GETTY IMAGES

The restricted free agent has admitted that his future with the team is uncertain and does not expect to have a contract by training camp.

Rumors continued to swirl this week when Sportsnet's Jeff Marek told FAN590 that "there is a feeling around the NHL that Patrik Laine has fallen out of favor," with the Jets.

That could mean that the club is looking to trade goal-scorer. And the Islanders are a perfect trade candidate given their depth of young talent and defenseman.

WHAT WOULD LAINE'S COST BE?

Laine experienced a sizable regression in his game last season. After scoring 36 and 44 goals in his first two NHL seasons, he was off to a barnstorming start in 2018-19 when he recorded 23 goals in his first 32 games.

Then came his first real, severe slump. The Finland native scored just seven times in his final 50 games, making him nothing short of a liability.

With a one-dimensional game, Laine doesn't provide much in terms of backchecking or defensive effort. That obviously wouldn't fly in the Islanders' structured system under Trotz, which would put a limit on what the Jets would get in return.

It would be an awful lot for the Islanders to give up some of their top prospects like forwards Oliver Wahlstrom or Keiffer Bellows, along with defenseman Noah Dobson — who is ready to make the jump to the NHL.

Talents like that would be a centerpiece of what Winnipeg would ask for, most likely.

It's worth noting, however, that Laine is still just 21 years old. Which might make the gamble of giving up a young talent worth it.

Defensive responsibilities can be taught, especially when working under a management system that includes a Hall-of-Famer in Lamoriello and one of the greatest coaches in NHL history in Trotz.

Then put Laine on a first-line flanking a playmaker like Mathew Barzal, and the results could be magical for the Islanders.

If things grow more contentious in Winnipeg, it's something to at least consider.

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK COUNTY OF KINGS

Index No. 53249-2019 Date Summons Filed: June 27, 2019. Celso R. Mendez, III, Plaintiff, against - Lili He, Defendant. SUMMONS WITH NOTICE. This action is brought in the County of Kings because said County is the County where the Plaintiff resides. ACTION FOR A DIVORCE. To the above named Defendant: YOU ARE HEREBY SUMMONED AND REQUIRED TO RESPOND TO THIS SUMMONS and to the requests for relief made by Plaintiff by serving a written Notice of Appearance on Plaintiff's attorney, at the address stated below. If this Summons with Notice was served upon you within the State of New York by personal delivery, you must respond WITHIN 20 DAYS after service, exclusive of the day of service. If this Summons of Notice was not personally delivered to you within the State of New York you must respond WITHIN 30 DAYS after service is complete in accordance with the requirements of the Civil Practice Law and Rules. THE NATURE OF THIS ACTION IS TO OBTAIN A JUDGMENT OF DIVORCE, DISSOLVING THE MARRIAGE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN PLAINTIFF AND DEFENDANT. THIS ACTION FOR DIVORCE IS BASED UPON THE FOLLOWING GROUND OR GROUNDS: The relationship between Plaintiff and Defendant has broken down irretrievably for a period of at least six months, pursuant to DRL Section 170(7). THE RELIEF SOUGHT BY THE PLAINTIFF IN THIS ACTION IS A JUDGMENT DIVORCING THE PARTIES AND DISSOLVING THE MARITAL RELATIONSHIP WHICH HAS HERETOFORE EXISTED. PLAINTIFF ALSO REQUESTS THAT SUCH JUDGMENT GRANT THE FOLLOWING ITEMS OF ADDITIONAL AND ANCILLARY RELIEF: Awarding Plaintiff exclusive use and occupancy of the marital residence; Awarding Plaintiff exclusive use and occupancy of the contents of the marital residence; Awarding Plaintiff equitable distribution of marital property, including a distributive award to Plaintiff if required or appropriate to effect such equitable distribution; Declaring Plaintiff's separate property; Granting each party the right to resume the use of any maiden name or other pre-marriage surname; Awarding Plaintiff such other and further relief as to the court may seem just and proper, together with the costs and disbursements of this action. Notice: under DRL Section 255, effective October 9, 2009, notice is hereby given that once the judgment of divorce is signed, a party hereto may or may not be eligible to be covered under the other party's health insurance plan, depending on terms of plan. NOTICE OF ENTRY OF AUTOMATIC ORDERS (DRL 236) Rev. 1/13 FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH THESE ORDERS MAY BE DEEMED A CONTEMPT OF COURT. Pursuant to the Uniform Rules of the Trial Courts and DRL Section 236, Part B, section 2, the parties are bound by the following AUTOMATIC ORDERS, which have been entered against you and your spouse in your divorce action pursuant to 22 NYRR §202.16(a), and which shall remain in full force and effect during the pendency of the action unless terminated, modified or amended by further order of the court or upon written agreement between the parties: (1) ORDERED: Neither party shall transfer, encumber, assign, remove, withdraw, or in any way dispose of, without the consent of the other party in writing, or by order of the court, any property (including but not limited to real estate, personal property, cash accounts, stocks, mutual funds, bank accounts, cars and boats) individually or jointly held by the parties, except in the usual course of business, for customary and usual household expenses or for reasonable attorney's fees in connection with this action. (2) ORDERED: Neither party shall transfer, encumber, assign, remove, withdraw, or in any way dispose of any tax deferred funds, stocks, or other assets held in any individual retirement accounts, 401K accounts, profit sharing plans, Keogh accounts, or any other pension or retirement account, and the parties shall further refrain from applying for or requesting the payment of retirement benefits or annuity payments of any kind, without the consent of the other party in writing, or upon further order of the court; except that any party who is already in pay status may continue to receive such payments thereunder. (3) ORDERED: Neither party shall incur unreasonable debts hereafter, including but not limited to further borrowing against any credit line secured by the family residence, further encumbrancing any assets, or unreasonably using credit cards or cash advances against credit cards, except in the usual course of business or for customary or usual household expenses, or for reasonable attorney's fees in connection with this action. (4) ORDERED: Neither party shall cause the other party or the children of the marriage to be removed from any existing medical, hospital, and dental insurance coverage, and each party shall maintain the existing medical, hospital, and dental insurance coverage in full force and effect. (5) ORDERED: Neither party shall change the beneficiaries of any existing life insurance policies and each party shall maintain the existing life insurance, automobile insurance, homeowners, and renters insurance policies in full force and effect. IMPORTANT: After service of the Summons with Notice or Summons and Complaint for divorce, if you or your spouse wishes to modify or dissolve the automatic orders, you must ask the court for approval to do so or enter into a written modification agreement with your spouse duly signed and acknowledged before a notary public. Notice of Guideline Maintenance for Uncontested Divorce. If your divorce was commenced on or after January 25, 2016, this Notice is required to be given to you by the Supreme Court of the county where your divorce was filed to comply with the Maintenance Guidelines Law ([S. 5678/A. 7645], Chapter 269, Laws of 2015) because you may not have counsel in this action to advise you. It does not mean that your spouse (the person you are married to) is seeking or offering an award of "Maintenance" in this action. "Maintenance" means the amount to be paid to the other spouse for support after the divorce is final. You are hereby given notice that under the Maintenance Guidelines Law (Chapter 269, Laws of 2015), there is an obligation to award the guideline amount of maintenance on income up to $184,000 to be paid by the party with the higher income (the maintenance payor) to the party with the lower income (the maintenance payee) according to a formula, unless the parties agree otherwise or waive this right. Depending on the incomes of the parties, the obligation might fall on either the Plaintiff or Defendant in the action. There are two formulas to determine the amount of the obligation. If you and your spouse have no children, the higher formula will apply. If there are children of the marriage, the lower formula will apply, but only if the maintenance payor is paying child support to the other spouse who has the children as the custodial parent. Otherwise the higher formula will apply. Lower Formula-1- Multiply Maintenance Payor's Income by 20%, 2- Multiply Maintenance Payee's Income by 25% - Subtract Line 2 from Line 1: = Result 1. Subtract Maintenance Payee's Income from 40% of Combined Income* = Result 2. Enter the lower of Result 2 or Result 1, but if less than or equal to zero, enter zero. THIS IS THE CALCULATED GUIDELINE AMOUNT OF MAINTENANCE WITH THE LOWER FORMULA. Higher Formula- 1 - Multiply Maintenance Payor's Income by 30%, 2- Multiply Maintenance Payee's Income by 20% - Subtract Line 2 from Line 1 = Result 1. Subtract Maintenance Payee's Income from 40% of Combined Income* = Result 2. Enter the lower of Result 2 or Result 1, but if less than or equal to zero, enter zero. THIS IS THE CALCULATED GUIDELINE AMOUNT OF MAINTENANCE WITH THE HIGHER FORMULA- *Combined Income equals Maintenance Payor's Income up to $184,000 plus Maintenance Payee's Income. Note: The Court will determine how long maintenance will be paid in accordance with the statute. IN THE EVENT THAT YOU FAIL TO APPEAR OR ANSWER, JUDGMENT WILL BE TAKEN AGAINST YOU, by default, for the relief demanded in this Summons with Notice. The relief sought is a judgment of absolute divorce in favor of the Plaintiff dissolving the marriage between the parties in this action. Marital property to be distributed pursuant to separation agreement/stipulation; I am not seeking maintenance as the payee spouse, as described in the Notice of Guideline Maintenance (the Notice"), other than what was already agreed to in a written agreement/stipulation; AND any other relief the court deems fit and proper.
